TO TEST ITS LEGALITY.

President McCall Will Not Permit Mr. Beers to Draw His Pension

New York, April 7.-Although an annual pension of $37,500 was voted to William H. Beers when he retired from the presidency of the New York Life Insurance Company by the trustees of the company, and a contract to that effect between him and the company was duly executed, he has not yet drawn any part of the pension and will not be permitted to draw any by his successor, President John A. McCall, until the contract has been established in the courts as binding upon the company.

President McCall said that he was not member of the board of trustees when the pension was voted to Mr. Beers and the contract agreed to. If he had been he would not have voted for it. He said no money would be paid to Mr. Beers un-til the courts declared the contract valid.

DEMOCRATS IN CAUCUS.

Lagislators at Albany Most in Secret for Over Two Hours.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 7 .- The Demoratic members of the Assembly met in caucus last evening immediately after the adjournment of the afternoon session of the House. For over two hours they were closeted in the Assembly parlor, and it is said that heated and, at times flery, discussions were had. The proceedings were strictly executive, and the members absolutely refuse to disclose a syllable as to what was done.

It is well understood, however, that is was agreed to support the Constitutional Convention bill, the Tammany Inspec-tors' bill and the Congressional Reappor-tionment measure. The Excise bill was taken up for consideration and a hot fight was waged over it provisions. Some of the members refused to support it un-der any consideration. After much dis-cussion it was agreed to not make it a party measure, as that would be practi-cally impossible under the circumstances.

DALZELL ROORBACK.

An Attack on Quay as a Soldier Has a Quick Reaction.

GRAND ARMY MEN INDIGNANT.

The Pittsburg Politician Suffers Irreparable Injury Through the Stupidity of the Editor of His Philadelphia Organ.

The anti-Quay editor of his Philadel- go. "Don't be afraid of me," said the phia organ sprung a crushing boomerang on John Dalzell the other day. In capping the climax of the most despicable species of guerilla campaigning ever witnessed within the Republican party in this state came a virulent attack upon Senator Quay's soldier record. Not only the Beaver statesman, but his whole regiment was assailed, and in a long tirade of misrepresentation and abuse of brave and gallant soldiers Dalzell was done more harm than even his bitterest enemies could wish him.

In this attempt to damage Colonel Quay's reputation, to belittle his valiant service on the field of battle, and to hold him up to ridicule, this rabid Dalzoil organ made a terrible blunder. No one appreciates this more than John Dalzell himself. His more discrete friends in Pittsburg were quick to see the harm that had been done his cause. They promptly sought to remedy the damage already wrought and to en-deavor to stop further fool's work in that direction.

An Insult to Every Soldier.

Not content with maligning Colonel Quay, the editor of this Dalzell organ sneeringly quoted the word "Comrade" in referring to the junior senator, as he has been addressed by the members of has been addressed by the members of his regiment, who have gallantly rahited to his support. Prominent Grand Army men, who have no interest whatever in this political contest, declare this to be an insult to all the members of that patriotic organization, who love to address each other with the fraternal salute, Rebuked from Their Own Ranks. No more stinging rebuke could be given to this sort of campaigning than came from the editor of the Pittsburg Times, the principal Republican paper in Western Pennsylvania supporting Dalzell.

"No man who knows him (Senator Quay) from having stood beside or be-fore him will believe that he was ever a shirk or a coward," says the Pittsburg Times. "It will avail no cause to sneer at him as such, or to belittle his services during the war. The elbow touch be-tween soldier and soldier is very close, and such attacks as this are sure to arouse them to warmer effort in his behalf; for it is unfair because, through ignorance or suppression, it is by inference, if not in direct statement, un-

"Why the Press resorts to such methods "Why the Press resorts to such methods is not easy to understand, unless its real purpose is to arouse a spirit of bitterness between the followers of the two leading candidates which will make the election of either impossible, and thus open the way for some other, who may be its real candidate. If, for such a purpose as this, it has set out thus early to promote discord and create hatreds, on the eve of a struggle which will demand eve of a struggle which will demand from the Republican party the full strength of union and harmonious effort, it has taken a crooked path that can only lead into dangers to the party without honor or advantage to anybody."

Save Him From His Friends.

At the anti-Quay headquarters in Pittaburg the publication in Dalzell's Philadelphia organ created consternation. Major Bryner, secretary of the organization, was quick to see the damaging effect such tactics would have to their cause. He knew the old soldiers throughout the state would resent campaigning of that character. paigning of that character.
"That kind of an attack," said Major

Byrner, filled with indignation at the stupidity of the author of the article "is a very short sighted piece of political policy. Our organization here does not approve of it. In fact, I can safely say that every member of the executive committee has denounced it." Truly, should John Dalzell exclaim: "Save me from my [fool] friends!1

Never Against His Party.

Senator Quay has fought many bat-tles for the Republican party and not one against it; his record as a soldier, as a citizen and as a public official cannot be impeached, and the party will honor itself far more in sending him back to the senate than that action will honor him.—Meadville Tribune-Republican. THE LANDLORD HELD UP Frank Diederick, of the Rhinceliffe Hotel,

Relieved of His Money. POUGHEREPSIE, N. Y., April 7 .- A stranger robbed Frank Deiderick, proprietor of the Rhinecliffe Hotel, at the point of a pistol.

Shortly after midnight Mr. Delderick heard a noise in the stranger's room and going there found him apparently greatly excited. He declared that he heard burglars in the house, and tried in every way to induce Deiderick to ac company him down stairs and look for them. Deiderick, however, refused to stranger, taking the loaded chamber from his revolver and handing the handle part to Deiderick. "Come," he persisted, "I will help you catch the rascals, for I know they are here."

Deiderick still refusing to accompany him the fellow went down stairs alone. He returned in a short time, saying that there was a helpless man in the gutter in front of the hotel.

"It's a shame to leave him there," he id, "let's go down and help him." These and other schemes to get the hotel proprietor down stairs failing, the stranger retired to his room. A few minutes later Delderick went to the fel-low's room to bid him be quiet, and upon opening the door a revolver was pointed at his head with the declaration pointed at his he by the stranger:
